Fresh from another amazing run at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe, The Sorries will be making a welcome return to Linlithgow.

The Sorries are Douglas Kay (vocals, guitar, mandolin, bodhran) and Martin Philip (vocals, guitar, tres cubano, bodhran). Inspired by a love of The Corries, they perform a range of traditional songs from the Scottish songbook. Although many of the songs the duo perform are hundreds of years old, the pair's arrangements and harmonies make the tunes sound as fresh and vibrant as ever.

Support by Miller & O'Neill – a new duo with two great performers– Stuart Miller and Terry O'Neill, who are well-known on the Scottish Folk scene.

8pm – 10.30pm (Doors open 7.30pm)

Tickets priced £12 (plus booking fee) are available online via our ticketing platform.

SAT 17 SEPT THE TONKERERS

We are delighted to welcome "Falkirk's Finest" - The Tonkerers - to the Linlithgow Folk Festival this year.

The Tonkerers are an experienced five-piece band from Falkirk who play a wide range of music including their own energetic arrangements of songs, drawing on folk, country, reggae, and pop influences.

They deliver a crowd-pleasing mix of entertainment with energy and a sense of fun enjoyed by audiences of all ages.

The band takes its name from an incident in Falkirk High Street in 1624, when the town drummer, George Brocklay, was accused of "drinking and tonkering ye drum at unreasonable hours on ye sabbath morne".

8pm – 10pm (Doors open 7.30pm)

Tickets priced £10 (plus booking fee) are available online via our ticketing platform.
